Here is my thought for Webasto gas heater users. The Ford Transit aux fuel pickup design is causing issues. What seems like a good idea, goes wrong when using a Webasto heater. The Ford aux fuel pickup was designed to prevent the aux fuel use from draining the fuel tank completely. This raised pickup point unports around 1/4 tank maybe a bit more. When this happens, the webasto connected fuel ...

Webasto sells a ton of these, and has for many years, so I would think the genuine units are at least somewhat reliable. They also want you to buy the higher-end units, so of course they're going to state the lower-end ones don't work above 5k feet. It's a "lifehack" to adjust with the rheostat, not a webasto-approved change. I think Antoine over at faroutride uses his above 5k for weeks on ...
