You are living in a box. It's a nice comfortable box perhaps, with lots of windows. You can see other people, earning more than you, driving better cars than you, healthier than you, happier than you and it appears that they are just lucky, or have been privileged somehow. There are lots of reasons you think or believe they are doing better than you, but none of those reasons are correct. Only one reason is correct. They live in a different box. All of us live in boxes created by our minds that have been built to protect us and those boxes tell us where the edges of our reality are, the edges of our expectations. Good news: You CREATED the box. That means you can break it and remake it any way you want. You can expand the edges of your reality and attract bigger and better things for you and your family. This book is the key to your personal transformation, helping you become the most magnificent you that you can be. It's about understanding what sets you off balance and what brings you back to deep serenity. About what brings you peace and contentment, frees your mind of negativity and most importantly an understanding of how your thoughts in this moment weave your very future. Its about feeling, in a very real and profound way, your connectedness to everyone and everything, your power and your significance in this world and perhaps even to find your lifes purpose. Its about understanding the how the nature of reality and the power of your mind combined enable you to achieve anything you desire. My promise is this: You will finish reading this book a different person than the one who started reading it.

Franz Kafka, the author has very nicely narrated the story of Gregou Samsa who wakes up one day to discover that he has metamorphosed into a bug. The book concerns itself with the themes of alienation and existentialism. The author has written many important stories, including 'The Judgement', and much of his novels 'Amerika', 'The Castle', 'The Hunger Artist'. Many of his stories were published during his lifetime but many were not. Over the course of the 1920s and 30s Kafka's works were published and translated instantly becoming landmarks of twentieth-century literature. Ironically, the story ends on an optimistic note, as the family puts itself back together. The style of the book epitomizes Kafka's writing. Kafka very interestingly, used to present an impossible situation, such as a man's transformation into an insect, and develop the story from there with perfect realism and intense attention to detail. The Metamorphosis is an autobiographical piece of writing, and we find that parts of the story reflect Kafka's own life.

A collection of stories, fables, and aphorisms, written between 1917 and 1924.

"When Gregor Samsa woke one morning from uneasy dreams, he found himself transformed into some kind of monstrous vermin." With a bewildering blend of the everyday and the fantastical, Kafka thus begins his most famous short story, The Metamorphosis. A commercial traveller is unexpectedly freed from his dreary job by his inexplicable transformation into an insect, which drastically alters his relationship with his family. Kafka considered publishing it with two of the stories included here in a volume to be called Punishments. The Judgement also concerns family tensions, when a power struggle between father and son ends with the father passing an enigmatic judgement on the helpless son. The third story, In the Penal Colony, explores questions of power, justice, punishment, and the meaning of pain in a colonial setting. These three stories are flanked by two very different works. Meditation, the first book Kafka published, consists of light, whimsical, often poignant mood-pictures, while in the autobiographical Letter to his Father, Kafka analyses his difficult relationship in forensic and devastating detail.
